Simply the best

By David P

Copeland has taken a process that has been taking place informally for decades in the resident camping industry and made it systemic and understandable. This is simply the best book related to the topic of master planning - period. I would recommend that anyone contemplating a capital project read this book first - the cost is inconsequential verses the possible multiple tens of thousands of dollars saved by thoughtful, careful and strategic planning.

Great resource

By Lisa Patty

Excellent resource for anyone in the camping business. It helps one understand the evolution of "old time" campsites and the challenges brought on by today's building codes and campers' current demands.
